

Louisville Chapter ISCEBS

Good for Your Employer.
Good for the Industry.
Better for You!

Quarterly Luncheon Thursday, October 5, 2017

Making the case for financial wellness initiatives in the workplace.

The art of crafting an engaging and successful financial wellness program.

Everyone wins when employer-sponsored programs help employees reduce debt, increase savings and reduce financial stress.

Join us for a casual lunch discussion amongst benefits professionals led by Al Riddick, founder and president of Game Time Budgeting (GTB), an award-winning financial fitness company.

Al founded GTB in 2010 to fulfill his life passion and purpose of helping others learn new behaviors with money which produce spending less so they can have more. GTB has facilitated dynamic and interactive financial fitness workshops for a variety of corporations and organizations in the retail, manufacturing and distribution industries, as well as professional organizations and universities. Al has been featured on radio and television stations and has recently released his book, The Uncommon Millionaire, which details his personal financial journey from the tobacco fields of North Carolina to millionaire status in his 30s.

Thursday, October 5, 2017
11:30 am to 1:00 pm

Romano's Macaroni Grill
401 S. Hurstbourne Parkway

No meeting fee! Lunch costs are not included.

Please RSVP by replying to events@benefitslouisville.org by October 3rd.

For questions, contact
Brenda Miles at Brenda Miles@papajohns.com, 502-261-4469

This is an educational meeting sponsored by the Louisville Chapter of ISCEBS.

Education sessions at this program will qualify for one (1) CEBS continuing professional education (CPE) credit. Visit www.cebscpe.org for more information.