Union.dev Software Inc

Halifax, Nova Scotia

Kevin Ansems is CMO at Union.dev, a software company building modern administration infrastructure for pension funds, benefit trusts, and workplace organizations across Canada and the United States. He leads growth, partnerships, and platform strategy, with a focus on helping fund administrators and Taft-Hartley plans modernize member and employer experience without adding operational risk. Kevin holds a Pension Law certificate from Osgoode Hall Law School and completed the Harvard Trade Union Program, and has worked closely with plan administrators, TPAs, and fund offices to bridge the gap between enterprise-grade back-office systems and the everyday experience members and employers actually need.
