

Ralph Corasaniti

Vice President, Defined Contribution Lifetime Income
Prudential Financial, Inc.
Delray Beach, Florida

Ralph Corasaniti is a leader on Prudential's future growth initiatives team within retirement strategies. This team is focused on delivering retirement income in brand new ways to expand access to retirement security across the U.S. Ralph's focus is on the Defined Contribution Lifetime Income (DCLI) market, where he partners with asset managers, recordkeepers, technology firms, consultants, advisors, and plan sponsors to bring lifetime income protection from Prudential to U.S. workers and retirees. Ralph also leads Prudential Financial's InterNotes® program that offers corporate notes to retail investors through broker-dealers and registered investment advisors. Additionally, Ralph collaborates with his future growth colleagues on managing fintech partnerships and investments, executing on emerging retail wealth management product and distribution opportunities, and scanning the market for areas where Prudential can lead in new markets or product categories. Prior to joining Prudential in 2024, Ralph spent 13 years working in the asset management industry. He started his career at Legg Mason and worked most recently for Franklin Templeton, where he served as SVP, strategic accounts and innovation director for the U.S. retirement, insurance and college savings division. Across his time in asset management, Ralph developed a passion for growing and diversifying institutional relationships through tech-enabled co-development initiatives, which carries over into the work he does as part of Prudential's future growth initiatives team. Ralph holds the Certified Investment Management Analyst certification, administered by the Investments & Wealth Institute and taught in conjunction with The Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania. He earned his bachelor of the arts degree in history from the College of William and Mary. He also serves as co-chair of the Insured Retirement Institute's retirement research committee. He currently resides in Delray Beach, Florida, where he and his wife are raising two young boys.
